This Notice to Explain is being issued due to several observed lapses in your performance and adherence to company procedures, specifically:

1. Repeated inaccurate updates – providing updates that are inconsistent or not aligned with actual releases.
2. On the spot offsets or cancellations of release – making sudden changes to release schedules without prior notice or proper communication.
3. Unchecked files – failing to review documents, resulting in clutter and disorganized records.
4. Failure to update general ledger – neglecting to record and maintain accurate entries in the books of accounts.
5. Failure to enforce staff compliance – not ensuring that staff members follow instructions, leading to inactive updates and operational inefficiencies.
6. Failure to Conduct Scheduled Saturday Activity (Survey) -It has been observed that the scheduled Saturday activity, specifically the conduct of the survey, was not carried out as planned.

In addition, you are required to provide a clear explanation regarding your personal involvement with a staff member, specifically:

- Allegations of bathing together with said staff member.

  Frequent video calls with the staff member after reassignment.
- Continued close association for one month in the branch despite the staff member's lack of clarity on transaction procedures.

This behavior has resulted in loss of respect among colleagues within the workplace and has hindered the proper addressing of operational concerns due to excessive focus on one staff member.

You are hereby directed to submit a written explanation within 5 working days from receipt of this notice, addressing both the operational lapses and the personal conduct issues, and stating why no disciplinary action should be taken against you.

Failure to provide a satisfactory explanation within the given period may result in further administrative action in accordance with company rules and regulations.

EXPLANATION LETTER

Dear Ma'am/Sir,

I acknowledge receipt of your Notice to Explain dated September 7, 2026. I take these matters seriously and provide this honest, comprehensive explanation to address all operational lapses and personal conduct concerns raised, with a commitment to correct and uphold the company's standards moving forward.

RESPONSE TO OPERATIONAL LAPSES

Repeated inaccurate updates
-I sincerely apologize for providing updates that were inconsistent with actual releases. This was not intentional oversight, there was a temporary breakdown in cross-verifying data between field reports and central system records during a period of high transaction volume. I have since implemented a double-check verification process and will reconcile all data with the system before sharing any updates to prevent recurrence.

On the spot offsets or cancellations of release.
-I admit to making sudden schedule adjustments without prior notice. These were done in urgent situations to address unforeseen issues, funding delays, client emergencies but I failed to follow proper communication protocols. Going forward, I will always provide advance notice and secure required approvals before modifying schedules, except in extreme emergencies where I will document and explain the change immediately after.

Unchecked files/ Disorganized records
-I take full responsibility for failing to thoroughly review documents, leading to cluttered records. This was due to being overwhelmed by concurrent branch tasks without proper prioritization. I have reorganized all files, created a standardized review checklist, and allocated dedicated daily time for document checking to ensure completeness and accuracy.

Failure to update General Ledger
-I apologize for delays and incomplete entries in the general ledger. This was a lapse in timely recording, not an attempt to misrepresent any figures. I have already reconciled and updated all backlogged entries as of today, and will enforce a strict daily recording schedule to maintain accurate, up to date books of accounts.

Failure to enforce staff compliance
-I acknowledge that I did not sufficiently ensure all team members followed instructions, leading to inactive updates and inefficiencies. I have since conducted a branch meeting to re-align all staff on procedures, assigned clear accountability for each task, and will implement regular check-ins and performance monitoring to ensure full compliance.

Failure to conduct scheduled Saturday survey activity
-I sincerely apologize for not carrying out the scheduled survey as planned. The activity was inadvertently rescheduled due to conflicting urgent branch priorities, and I failed to communicate the change or reschedule it properly. I will maintain a centralized activity calendar with reminders to ensure all scheduled tasks are executed on time.

RESPONSE TO PERSONAL CONDUCT & ASSOCIATION CONCERNS

Allegation of Bathing together with a staff member
-This is a purely personal and private matter that has no connection whatsoever to my official duties, branch operations, or professional conduct at work. I also wish to point out: as an immediate supervisor, if such allegations were raised, the proper and first course of action should have been to confront and hear the side of the staff member involved not to direct the inquiry solely at me. It is inappropriate, irrelevant, and unfair to include personal private affairs in a formal work-related notice. We have not filed any complaints against anyone yet we are the ones being subjected to inquiries and being made to answer, while serious concerns such as unauthorized fund transfers remain unaddressed. This appears to be a one-sided report coming from only one staff member, which is being directed and held against me. I respectfully submit that purely personal matters should not be used as basis for administrative inquiry or disciplinary action, and I request that management focus on work-related issues rather than private personal affairs.

Frequent video calls after reassignment
-There were occasional work-related video calls with this staff member only to clarify pending branch matters and ensure smooth handover following their reassignment. These calls were strictly professional, necessary for operational continuity, and not excessive or personal in nature.

Continued close association despite lack of transaction clarity
-I provided guidance and clarification on transaction procedures to this staff member for approximately one month this was part of my duty as Branch Manager to support staff competence, not inappropriate association. Once they gained sufficient proficiency, the frequency of assistance naturally decreased. At no time did this interaction interfere with my supervision of other staff or branch operations.

I deeply regret that my professional support and guidance have been misinterpreted, and that this situation has caused loss of respect among colleagues or distracted from operational priorities.

Going forward, I will ensure all interactions with staff are strictly within professional boundaries, conducted in a transparent manner, and do not create perceptions of favoritism or impropriety.

Thank you for your kind consideration.

Sincerely,

GILVIC P. ORTEGA
